ALLEMAN'S Christmas News.

A veritable Christmas Store is what we have now. We do not ask you to buy all your Christmas Gifts here, however, although we do certainly believe that you would save many a dollar if you would do so. You will stroll through a good many stores before you finish your Christmas shopping and you will see many nice things and will buy something here and something there, without considering the price. Why not consider the price? Why not save money when you can? The more gifts purchased at ALLEMAN'S the more money saved.

Bargains to right of you, Bargains to left of you, Bargains in front of you is the picture that greets your eye as you enter here.

TOYS! DOLLS!

Santa Claus has come down our chimney and left a whole lot of Dolls and Toys for the little ones. It will save him carrying so many on Christmas Eve, and he wants the papas and mammas and big brothers and sisters, etc., to see that these are all ready to be put in your stocking or hung on the tip-top of the big Christmas Tree.

And he has not forgotten the big people either. We have here gifts for Father, Mother, Brother, Sister, Sweetheart or Friend.

FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM WILLIAM A. KEPNER, WHO IS ENGAGED IN THE PHILIPPINES AS A TEACHER.

ON BOARD S. S. ASCENSION.

Tuesday, Sept. 24, 1901.

Until you have made a trip at sea you cannot conceive the delightful cruise I am having. We left Manila for Leyte Island last Sunday at 5 p.m. We had a delightful sea. Manila Bay is usually rough, but on this day it was calm. Our old boat is a heavy steel Spanish craft; it moves slowly but surely. As I sat on deck watching the sun go down back of clouds and a volcanic mountain that the only motion of the ship was a steady drifting, gliding motion. Soon after we left Manila Bay moonlight took the place of our short twilight. How I wish you could have seen these tropical seas and their islands lighted up with the moonlight. On this little cruise we do not hear the song "Oh, it's home, boys, home, home we ought to be," but our songs reveal higher spirits at present. Sunday night my favorite song, "Ne'er my God to Thee," sounded better to me than it had ever before. We also sang another beautiful hymn, "Lead Kindly Light." Songs at sea and away from home have a much stronger hold upon one than we imagine they would.

We have just now left the harbor of Masbate, which is the chief town of Masbate Island. It lies on the east coast of the island. About six of us went ashore with a boat load of cargo. This little harbor is as beautiful as the harbor of Honolulu. I have never seen a smoother surface on water than I saw on this bay. The only wave was a V shaped ripple spreading from the bow of our little rowboat out to the palm-covered mountainous shores of the bay. We went up into Masbate. It is high and dry and very healthful. It is not a large place. Most of the buildings are mud houses. We bought some coconuts at the rate of 4 for 5 cents Mexican or 25 cents gold. Here also we found some of the best bananas I have yet eaten.

At the place are a garrison of soldiers and a military band. We visited the prison and found it filled entirely with Tagalogs.

These are the people of Luzon.

There were among them about six or seven captains of Ladrones. The Ladrones are the only men giving our troops trouble. These men are bands of robbers who visit Laros or towns and collect funds and provisions from the people. They hold the islands in constant fear. Against these men the troops are given ammunition with a spreading bullet. This bullet makes death a more likely result of a wound.

The captains of the Ladrones in the prison are kept in chains. They are all doomed to be hanged. Quite a desperate and lately troublesome one to our troops came up the lake and spoke in Spanish to me of my coconuts. He seemed like a real peasant Tagalog, and yet this man is guilty of burying a Chinaman alive and beheading others for their money. All rejoiced when he was captured. He no doubt will soon be hanged.

The boat ride is now finished. My sleepiness has just gone away. We have landed in Tacloban, the capital of Leyte Island. This is a nice little town, but it is not as Masbate. The town is very clean for a Philippine town. Going up the street we stopped in a Chinese store. There was a little Chinese boy about 10 years old. I called him a Filipino macho boy. "No," he shouted, "no Filipino macho, Chinese macho." On board our ship was a little Filipino boy who resembled a Chilian. I addressed him with an "Hello, Chino," "Chino?" No, no, no, no, No Chino, "Morro?" "No, No Morro, Chiliano!" This brings out the race hatred of the Chinese and Filipinos against one another. The same little Filipino boy had been in Spain and Manila. He did not like Spain and the Tagalogs. In Spain no doubt he had been looked upon as a young insurgent and ill-treated. In Manila he was picked out by the Tagalog boys as a visayan and completely fought. So he said in broken terms "no like Tagalog. Mucha complaint" (much fight), and made signs as if crying. So you see the Filipinos are a people fighting among themselves and ready to fight Spaniards, Chinese or American.

The Spanish and Filipino economy is bad.

Like the Chinamen in Honolulu

they break their backs with loads and machines should carry.

A good example of their methods was seen on ship.

Here every morning two men were employed for about 4 hours making tooth picks for our dinner table.

This was the only meal of the day we were furnished tooth picks. The natives at all times seem to take much time and about three trials at a task before it is done.

Mr. Johnson broke off a bit of bread and glanced abstractedly at a calendar hanging upon the wall. But she said nothing.

"Perhaps," said Mr. Johnson, "after you have been living the precarious existence of a Washington boarder for a period you will arrive at a feeling of what it was that you gave up in forcing me, by your own negligence, to close up this home. I have hoped to spend in peace and comfort my declining years, now is a home in name only. It's natural guardian and caretaker now resides in her bosom a positive hell for it. It were idle for me to contend with such a situation."

Mrs. Johnson, neither denying nor affirming the allegation, gave herself some of the mushrooms with which the steak was garnished, and went on with her meal.

"While I feel," continued Mr. Johnson, "the utter impossibility of bringing you to a realizing sense of the unhappiness which you have caused and still cause me in this attitude of yours toward our home, nevertheless I am forced to act. Madam, we break up housekeeping and go to boarding about two weeks from now—namely on October 1."

Mrs. Johnson broke off a bit of bread and glanced abstractedly at a calendar hanging upon the wall. But she said nothing.

"The furniture shall be stored," went on Mr. Johnson. "All that I shall expect you to do will be to superintend the packing. I shall send men to the house, of course, to do the actual work, but I trust I may request that about a week's time you begin the preliminary work looking to the getting together of this household's possessions in the speediest and most efficient manner. I desire to have you distinctly understand, and therefore repeat the fact, that we give up the key to this house on September 30, and that we leave the house behind on the morning of October 1."

Mrs. Johnson slightly inclined her head, and Mr. Johnson went ahead with his dinner, carefully avoiding even touching the very slightly overdone steak, which, notwithstanding its being very slightly overdone, was really delicious.

Mr. Johnson whistled quite merrily before breakfast the next morning, and while the meal was preparing he was prowling around the next yard, training some morning glories on the fence, and otherwise busing himself effectively to his shirt sleeves.

"You are? Well, well! And how long have you been married? You are only a girl yourself; too young to have two such big children."

The train drew up at a station just then, and the young woman gathered her children together as she answered, with a snap of her big brown eyes:

"I've been married long enough to be able to attend to my own business."

"Perchance your cousin or aunt?"

"No? But you are not their mother, are you?"

"Well!" said the old woman as the train started again. "I wonder what was the matter with that girl. She seemed put out."

LET US GET IT.

The people of Gettysburg will be asked in the near future, if the plan at present proposed is consummated, to contribute $5000 for the purpose of paying expenses incidental to the establishment here of an important industry. Definite information is not as yet given out as to the personnel of the management of the business nor have the plans been fully developed, but the project is in the hands of business men who are responsible and capable.

The people of our town have been deceived in several ventures in which they have placed their money and there has arisen a suspicion of new ideas. This is quite natural, but we should not allow a good thing to pass by, and if the industry referred to in a communication found in another column proves to be what it purports to be it should have all the assistance the town can give it. We understand that a committee will call upon our people in the interests of this new industry, and we do not know it can be fully explained. If it meets with the approval of those whom it is sought to interest let support be given it liberally. Employment for a larger number of men is what Gettysburg wants and the new proposition is deserving of serious consideration.

ANOTHER NATIONAL PARK.

In line with the founding of national parks it is proposed to acquire Valley Forge, and bills to carry that intention into effect have been introduced in Congress.

It has been demonstrated at Gettysburg what can be done in making a national park, for the plan here resulted in the establishment of the most completely and accurately marked, the grandest and most conspicuous in its scope and altogether the most conspicuous of the battle grounds of the world; and as the park here is commemorative of the valor and patriotism of American soldiers during the Rebellion so would a similar park at Valley Forge be a memorial to the courage of Washington and his men. Valley Forge as a historic spot deserves to be made one of the national shrines of the great republic, in whose beginning it figured so gloriously. The story of American heraldry displayed there is the supreme epic of the Revolutionary war.

THE SCHLEY MIS-TRIAL.

It is most deeply to be regretted that the two inferior members of the Schley Court of Inquiry, constituting a majority of that body, have had the hardihood to make a report voicing substantially the prejudices of jealous fellow-officers in the Navy Department, rather than the plain truth, as made manifest to the American public by the great event with which the whole world is familiar. The majority report admits, indeed, that "Admiral Schley's conduct during the battle was self-possessed and that he encouraged in his own person his subordinate officers and men"—thus disposing of the judgment of the pre-judged public counsel stand, it will necessitate a congressional investigation and second inquiry, thus creating an unpleasant parallel to the Dreyfuss scandal.—Editor.

RAIN REGAN TO FALL last Friday evening and kept at it in a full fury until Saturday evening when, accompanied with a strong wind, it became a perfect downpour. Many, no doubt, were surprised Sunday morning on seeing the sun shining in a cloudless sky. Storms on Saturday were general throughout the country, from the Rocky Mountains to the Gulf. In Colorado the temperature was about 16° below zero and in Wisconsin 20° below. The thermometer here yesterday morning registered from 15 to 20 degrees above. The sudden change is hard on the system, even of the most robust, and it ought to be needless to advise all to be careful during the extreme changes in temperature. Disease is a guest, who, when he gets into the house, is often inclined to stay quite a while.

A MEMORIAL TABLET.

Placed in Church of the Prince of Peace.

Last week a handsome memorial tablet of bronze in dimensions about 30 by 42 inches, and bordered with embossed work, was placed in the Church of the Prince of Peace, by the Companions of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Commandery of Pennsylvania, in memory of Colonel Henry Ernest Goodman, late of Philadelphia.

The tablet bears this inscription:

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The exercises of the Reformed Church at McKnightstown will be held Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

On Sunday evening Dec. 15th at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Rice in Averndale, Mr. Daniel H. Goekenauer and Miss Susanna E. Schlesier, both of Berdertsville, were united in marriage by Rev. M. M. Neacher, pastor of the church.

Rev. F. C. Seitz was installed as pastor of Emmanuel Reformed Church, Hanover, last Wednesday evening, in the presence of a large congregation. Rev. Dr. J. Byman, of the Theological Seminary, Lancaster, delivered the charge to the new pastor, and Rev. Dr. T. J. Barkley, of Gettysburg, to the congregation. Rev. P. E. Beiner, of New Oxford, conducted the opening and closing exercises.

Edward Stachough, employed on the farm of C. E. Ehretbach, Esq., and Louis D. Sell, in the Pigeon Hill, Berwick township, fell down a shaft which they are sinking in search of copper. Wednesday afternoon at 11 o'clock. The shaft is six feet in diameter, cut out of solid rock, 66 feet deep. It was not seriously hurt.

The net profits of the Mayors Fair, held last October, were $50.01. The total receipts were $242.15 and the expenditures $19.13.

The injuries sustained by Clayton Goedelberger, a 16-year-old son of Jacob Goedelberger, of near Abbottstown, in the shooting accident on Monday evening is said to be very serious.

After wrangling for three years over the payment of $30,000, the bond of the late John H. Alteman, cashier of the First National Bank, Hanover, whose defection of $7,000 was discovered immediately after his death, the bondsmen last Wednesday paid the indemnity.

Landlord Harry Miller, of the Mansion House, Carlisle, has been presented with an Australian turkey that weighs 42 pounds. The bird has a top knot and peculiar looking tail. It is a curiosity, says the owner.

Out of the herd of 51 angora goats on the ranch of Greenawald and Leaser, near Giseleburg, seven ate laurel and have died. This was a surprise, as the ordinary goat will not touch laurel.

Mrs. Elizabeth Estick, who died in York last week, aged 84 years, was a sister of James Reever, who died in Highland township recently.

William H. Hinlein died Friday evening a period of 50 years service with the U.S. Navy. He began as a mess boy and rose to be a captain. He was the first to receive promotion to captain in the navy.

Granville S. Hayes, of near Union Bridge, Carroll county, Md., died yesterday morning last of heart trouble and rheumatism, aged 70 years. He was an active friend of the women's suffrage movement and was a director of the bank most continuously since its construction.

In 1872 he was elected president of the First National Bank of Westminster, which position he held up to the time of his death.

John C. Conaway, of the Western Maryland Railroad, was elected by the City Council of Baltimore last Monday evening.

Risking Life

To make a living! And we stand and stare up at the man in the clouds, wondering if any man can live.

It is not a bad life, but a hard one.

Let us, therefore, do all in our power to rescue this industry here and make it but the beginning of manufacturing growth for Gettysburg, which will place us on a level with our neighboring towns—Hanover, York, Carlisle, Chambersburg and Waynesboro.

HEAVY HOGS.

George J. Strode, of Strasburg, township, along the Hagerstown road, has killed five hogs this fall, weighing 330, 345, 355 and 382 lbs., the total weight 1800 lbs. Mr. Grove believes that there is big profit in hog raising.

It is paid $10 for 6 pigs, and paid out $13 for feed. He will sell 500 lbs. of fat at 11 cents a pound, which alone is enough to cover his cost outlay.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR GETTYSBURG.

A PROPOSED NEW AND IMPORTANT INDUSTRY MAY BE ESTABLISHED HERE—FINANCIAL AID AND GOOD WILL OF THE PEOPLE ASKED—A MOVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

A citizen of Gettysburg who has been instrumental in making arrangements for the location of a new and important industry here writes a communication on the subject, in which he makes an appeal for the good wishes and financial assistance of the townpeople.

It appears that the gentlemen who are concerned in this movement have determined to create the industry referred to, and will bring it to Gettysburg in case the $5000 for various expenses is donated by the town.

The communication reads as follows:

Gettysburg as last has an opportunity to locate an industry—an Iron Mill—which will give employment to 150 men with a probable increase to a much larger number as the business develops. The payroll from the start for the 150 men will be about $100,000 per month. The capital stock of the proposed corporation is $100,000, all of which has been subscribed.

SPRING SALES.

If you intend having sale in the spring send us the date for publication. The dates are published free of charge to all who advertise in the Compiler or have their bills printed with us.

The Compiler is read by 10,000 people every week. It goes into every section of Adams county, and is an excellent medium through which to make known the date of your sale and what you are going to sell.

Advertising and large and attractive sale bills at moderate prices.

The purpose of publishing the dates before the sales is to prevent two or more sales taking place on the same day in the same neighborhood. If you have fixed your date send it to us, so that your neighbors may know what day you have chosen.

MISCELLANEOUS.

We have prepared several hundred calendars for 1902 which we will be glad to distribute among our patrons. Please call at the office.

Near Saturday, the 21st, will be the shortest day of the year.

The Public Schools of Gettysburg will close on Friday next for the Christmas holidays and will re-open on Thursday, January 2, the day after New Year.

Mrs. David Kenderdine fell recently and dislocated her wrist. Dr. J. W. O'Neal adjusted the injury.

Wingard & Roman last week killed a dog for A. J. Smith which when dressed weighed 368 lbs.; also one for George Johns weighing 354 lbs.

At their regular monthly meeting last Wednesday evening at the Engine House, the Fire Company nominated new officers. The election will take place at the next regular meeting on the second Wednesday in January.

F. Mark Bram, the letter carrier, has closed his grocery store on Carlisle street.

The granite porch in front of the Eagle just completed is an improvement for Professor Eberhart to be proud of; it is something that won't wear out for a century or two.

This Soap Factory building proper is under roof and enclosed. The boiler room on the east side is now being built; all the machinery is here and the kettles are already in place. The proprietors will begin to make soap about the middle of January, unless something unforeseen occurs.

The mountain folks were in town last week with Christmas decorations, wreaths of holly and mistletoe and other pretty greenery. They will be coming and going until Christmas and all ought to partake of them, for they come a great distance and their sales are about their only means of Christmas cheer.
